

Material Conveying Systems

Twin Discharge Screw Conveyor

It is used to convey powders in a particular inclination angle. It is most commonly used for feeding into two packaging machine or processing machine hopper with different feeding station with level control or feed rate control.

